THE WASHINGTON CRITIC,

Washington, D. C.

RICHARD H. SYLVESTER, - Editor.

WASHINGTON, D. C., NOV. 13, 1885

THE DISTRICT IN CONGRESS.

It is of very considerable importance to the citizens of the District of Columbia that by some means or other they should be brought into nearer and more accessible relations to Congress, which body, although their direct governing power, not seldom goes about its District business in a most indirect and uncertain way.

It often seems to be forgotten by our friends at the Capitol, that it is as much to the interest of the Government as to that of the people governed, that the ways and means of the District should be closely looked after. The community of their affairs is under the present system, that neglect on the part of the Government must necessarily be to its own ultimate loss, while to the citizen, who has neither voice nor representation in Congress, it is not only a loss but a downright injustice.

Therefore it should be the duty of press and people alike to contribute without stint of whatever influence they possess, to procure such a revision of the rules of the House as will guarantee to the District, at stated times, the hearing and consideration of all matters that immediately concern its welfare, more equally distribute the important business with which the House is overcrowded and secure facilities, which the rules, as they now are, do not permit.

Yet our esteemed contemporary, the Star, seems to think that the proposition to amend the Rules is merely a covert attack on Mr. Randall by the Morrison faction—that it is a "mock issue" and the old "Morrison-Randall" feud broken out in a new place, "unmindful of the fact that the severest condemnation which has been made of the present code has proceeded from such papers as the New York Sun and the Philadelphia Times and from the most earnest followers and supporters of Mr. Randall in his latest contest for the Speakership.

We are the more surprised that the Star should take this position for the reason that in the past it has bitterly criticized the House Rules as obstructing legislation, especially for the District, thereby having been taken away from it by the revision of 1880. As a result of much important local legislation has died on the calendars or in the committee room, and it has been found necessary in every Congress since that time to assign days to the District Committee in order to secure the consideration of any local business.

The fact cannot be overlooked that however much Mr. Randall may desire to continue a concentration of despotic power in the Appropriations Committee, or however much the "Morrison faction" may kick against it, there is a strong and growing sentiment in both the great parties, irrespective of all personal considerations, to break up this obstructive control. It is a good deal more than a "mock-issue." To the people of the District of Columbia it is a vital question. Mr. Randall is not an object of attack; it is the principle he represents. It is not a "Morrison-Randall feud" over the tariff in which our citizens have no earthly interest, but a great contest for just legislation and the facilitation of the public business, that concerns every taxpayer and even the humblest citizen of Washington. Let us not then waste any sympathy on Mr. Randall nor trouble ourselves about Mr. Morrison, but put all our shoulders to the wheel to what we can toward getting the business of the House out of the rut in which it seems to have been fully and almost hopelessly side-tracked.

That once done, the District of Columbia may gain at least the partial representation at the Capitol which we are assured under the Constitution and which our every-day necessities demand, but of which for the past four or five years we have, by one species of house-pocus or another, been in great measure deprived.

THE NEW TAMMANY.

The all-pervading spirit of reform is to find an energetic illustration in the future management of Tammany Hall. If Mr. Loew, the new leader of that famous organization, succeeds in imbuing it with his own thoroughly sagacious and conservative views, and Tammany certainly has considerable capital in the shape of political patronage on which to start in its new departure. It now has in the city government the Sheriff, the County Clerk, the Register, the President of the Board of Aldermen, eight other Aldermen, a majority of the Coroners, five Senators and eight Assemblymen, besides the prestige of a victory in the late election, earned by legitimate methods and without trading.

Mr. Loew is evidently determined that Tammany shall suffer no more relapses if he can help it. He even aims to make it the controlling power in New York politics—the Democratic organization of the Metropolis—and opens its doors to all without regard to previous feilous affiliations, who choose to enter in, subscribe to its tenets and support its candidates.

THE FREE TRADERS. In conference in Chicago, boldly announce what they want, and say without hesitation that they are going to do their best to obtain their ends. In the resolutions

PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

"How she told it after coming home" is thus related by the Chicago News:

Miss Kellum, on account of illness, has been obliged to cancel her concert engagements.

LIEUTENANT GREELY'S lecture before the Scottish Geographical Society is to be delivered November 19.

Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody of Cambridge has been stricken with total deafness. He is now 74 years of age.

Miss Johnston, formerly Miss Harriet Lane, President of the A. S. C. A., has returned for the season to her Baltimore residence.

It is feared by the friends of Congressman Joseph Rankin of the Fifth Wisconsin District that he will not recover from his present illness.

Mr. GEORGE S. BOUTWELL will deliver his eulogy of General Butler at the Webster Historical Society December 30 at the Old South Church, Boston.

Miss NELLIE GRANT SARTON, so the latest rumor runs, after leaving for England, had a friend who preferred English society to America.

Dr. P. LIVERMORE of Hallowell, Me., is at St. Paul, the oldest telegraph operator in the world. He has been in charge of the Hallowell office since 1853.

Dr. M. P. MORRISON, who died at Monongahela City, Pa., on Tuesday, was a graduate from the college at Washington, Pa., in the same class with James C. Blaine.

COTTON anything be more pathetic and yet so practical as the following, written by a railway conductor: "Her weeping spirit sank to rest at 3:45, railroad time."—(Boston Transcript.)

DONOR HENRI MILLER THOMPSON was recently asked if women were capable of receiving what is called the higher education equally with men. The Bishop replied emphatically: "There is no sex in intelligence."

Miss ANNIE LIVINGSTON, daughter of Grace Greenwood, is to sing this month during the carnival in Bergamo, near Milan, in "La Sonnambula." She is described as being a light soprano and very capable.

The New York Woman's Suffrage Society yesterday celebrated the seventeenth birthday of Mrs. Henry B. Stanton by a reception at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Lozier. Mrs. Stanton wore a black satin dress with a point lace fichu and her snow-white hair in French plaits. The money raised for the cause was $100.

GLASTON was welcomed in Scotland with a song composed for the occasion, the chorus of which ran:

For the King of Liberty's sake, For the King of Liberty's sake, For the King of Liberty's sake, For the King of Liberty's sake.

The "Modern Babylon" in the estimation of the world. Mr. Stead was not tried for what he said, but for what he did. The sins of London are no doubt as scarlet as the editor painted them.

The effort to make a booming winter resort of Atlantic City is not meeting with unbounded success. The approaching cold weather has been driving visitors away by the hundreds. There is now left there but one prominent sojourner, in the person of Lee Sing, a distinguished and wealthy New York laundryman, who is stopping at the Seaside Hotel. The permanent residents of Atlantic City are not, however, entirely downcast. They yet have hopes of inducing Colonel William Lung of Philadelphia to spend a portion of the winter with them.

The faculty of the Wesleyan University at Delaware, Ohio, have suspended sixty-three theological students for attending a representation of "Richard and the Third." At first glance this looks a little hard on the boys and narrow-minded on the part of the faculty, but it was neither. The actor whom these students went to see, Mr. Frederick Warde, as an untrammelled critic we are bound under the circumstances to sustain the faculty.

GALVESTON has been subjected to a fiery visitation, the full extent of which can hardly be ascertained as yet, but evidently the most calamitous in the history of the city and especially destructive of its private residences, many of which were built of wood. Hundreds of these and other buildings have been reduced to ashes.

LIEUTENANT ROBERT E. IMPEY, who has just passed his examination for promotion to lieutenant-commander, will be commissioned to the United States Navy. This is a case presenting some very peculiar points, which may be called to the attention of the President and Secretary Whitney to right an alleged wrong. Mr. Impey was promoted October 1, 1881, while serving as navigator of the Quinnebaug on the European tour of the lieutenant-commander. He was then a "subject to examination," and was duly confirmed by the Senate at the ensuing session. On his return to the United States in 1884, he was examined and passed the physical and moral examination required, but was reported by the Examining Board as deficient in navigation. This was manifestly wrong, as he had been a navigator for five years, and was a member of the United States Navy. He was then promoted to lieutenant-commander, and was reported by the Examining Board as deficient in navigation. This was manifestly wrong, as he had been a navigator for five years, and was a member of the United States Navy. THE RING.

Oh, blithesome ring, oh, winsome ring, As down the glen, hear Monymore, We wandered to the sea.

For we had come to Bransdune, The rills of Torrance, And the blithesome ring, oh, winsome ring, As down the glen, hear Monymore, We wandered to the sea.

And the blithesome ring, oh, winsome ring, As down the glen, hear Monymore, We wandered to the sea.

And the blithesome ring, oh, winsome ring, As down the glen, hear Monymore, We wandered to the sea.
